If you are reading this email, then my darkest fears have come true.

Somebody in this company is a spy, and has been leaking valuable information to our competitors.

However, I think they know I've cottoned on.

I have been spending the last few weeks narrowing down who it could have been. It is one of the people who are working on our current most valuable client. Ask for the file in the lobby, and hopefully you can pick up from there. I've put all my notes from my investigation in there.

I've always trusted you, I know I'm asking a lot but I know that only you can find out who is trying to undermine us.

Your friend and employer,

Jerry Hoskins
